

March 31, 2008 (edited 6.11.09)

I HAVE A DREAM...

By: Sis Abigail Addei, 1000 Morris (Bronx) Assembly

Arise Sons of God, Arise Youth of God, Arise!

Arise for, in the midst of the day, I have a dream...

In the times of pain and thought, I have a dream ...

I have a dream that: one day the Apostolic Church will travel to the outskirts of the world, with the Apostolic Faith being professed nation to nation, state to state, city to city and from person to person;

That one day, we will take over all other denominations and become the fastest growing fellowship on the face of the Earth;

A dream that all Apostles, Pastors, and Elders will be embraced and hold one another, treating each other the same, despite their past, former religion, background, history or flaws.

Arise O, people of Jah for I have a dream that one day, the Youth of the Church won't grieve over the adult issues in the various Assemblies, but rather be able to rise above the problematic factors like burning smoke and bond together.

I'm still dreaming that one day all backbiting, gossip, jealousy, unfairness and fabricated destruction will cease forever.

I have a dream that one day, the spirit of division will be cast out, and there will be an outstanding breeze of peace, an envelope of unity and a banner of love waving high in the Apostolic Church.

Women of faith arise for I have a dream that, a role of a female in the Apostolic Church will not be restricted to Deaconess or National Women's Leader, but rather be upgraded. There won't be only males being ordained Apostles, Pastors, Evangelist and Elders, but women, too, will begin to lead the Church. Females will sit with males and help the Church move forward;

My dream continues that the Holy Spirit will move great and mightily in the Church, so great that no man would understand this manifestation.

I will arise for, I have a dream that one day my dream will become a dream realized, reality and true; that it will become a dream of all Apostolic Church worshippers. Only one day, some day- We shall arise and build together.

THIS PIECE WAS INSPIRED BY THE REALITIES WE LIVE IN TODAY IN THE APOSTOLIC CHURCH. MY DREAMS ARE DREAMS: THE OPPOSITE OF TODAY'S REALITY, BUT WITH GOD MY DREAMS WILL BECOME REALITY.

Abigail A.K. Addei